The Warly Press

Hongkong, August 17th 1871

THE ingenuity of the plan which was adopted by the Chinese, no doubt instigated by their adviser in chief, Mr. Hanr, for putting pressure upon Hongkong in order to forcesome errangement to be come to, so that duties similar to those levied at the Treaty ports might be obtained on the goods massing through this Colony, was extremely characteristic of the modus operandi always adopted by the native authorities in such matters. The question was not so much as alluded to directly, but the most carefully devised mea-The Sessions were the closed. sures were embodied in the proposed convention to force Hongkong into the position of 2 Trenty port. "You cannot," said Sir R. ALCOCK, in replying to the merchants in Hongkong, "onjoy at once the advantages of a Colony and of a Treaty port," betraying rule for new trial. The Attorney-General for charge them with the unlawful possession of in these words a greater familiarity with the motives that induced the arrangements in the convention unfavourable to this Colony than possibly was intended, and than cortainly redounded to the credit of his sagacity and of his capability of regarding the large interests of the country, as a whole, and without being biassed by considerations of a division of jurisdiction and policy which is altogether artificial. The remark made by the Minister showed that he fully understood from the first that the plan of operations adopted by the Chinese was designed to place Hongkong at a disadvantage, as compared with the Treaty ports. This plan was to give a preference to the latter by permitting goods to be taken from them to the proposed subsidiary ports, while Hongkong was the second of his eight objections, when the put under the bed by the soolie, who was disto be excluded from the privilege; and I court adjourned till bis morning at II. in other measures of the like nature: It is difficult to understand how Sir R. COURT OF SUMMARY JURISDICTION ALCOCK could have felt justified in allowing such a measure as this to form part of his Convention, without at all events pointing out its bearing in a very distinct manner. As the Representative of Great Britain it was surely his part to endeavour to arrest a blow plaintiff. It appeared from the Captain's exlevied at one of her Colonies, and his not doing so displayed a narrowness of view of with onions on private speculation. Osptain which it may be hoped few placed in so important a position would be capable. This fact is alluded to at the present time as affording an important indication, both of the side, but he bad no pecuniary interest in the apirit in which this question is likely to be treated by our Representatives, and the manner in which the Chinese will endeavour to compass their ends. The iden is, if possible, to subject Hongkong to the pressure of a species of fiscal " boot;" and when she begins 220 baskets, and paid for them. He sales quently the lock being extort a large sum of money from block being extort a large sum of money from block. to feel that she is somewhat inconveniently. pinched, for the native authorities to step forward, and point out the terms on which the difficulty which they have themselves made may be remedied, and to agree to take them beyond Green Island and put them over were recovered, and the thieven banded they were offered to Chen, who received them relieve Hongkong from the commercial torture, to which she has been subjected, on condition of her agreeing to pay the Imperial Government the same duties as are paid at the Treaty ports. The idea is ingenious, and, except our merchants and authorities be upon the alert, there is too much reason to fear that it will succeed. If a revision of the treaty containing terms such as those which Sir R. Alcock was, not only willing, but clearly anxious to accept, were agreed to it would be a mere question of months when Hongkong would have to agree to any proposition regarding duties which the Imperial Government might be pleased to propose. If matters went to this length, therefore, we should in all likelihood have to consent to some arrangement which would leave the difficulty under which the trade at present suffers unabated; that is, some plan by which the bulk of the duties would go to the Pekin Authorities, instead of to the local officials, who are properly entitled to them; thus leaving the temptation to place cruizers at the entrance to the harbour as great as ever, while in addition we should have to pay pay when he could. He was in had circumlarge sums to the Imperial Exchequer. This which made a large sum for him to pay. is no fanciful picture. There is, in addition to the strong internal evidence which was afforded by Sir R. Alcock's Convention, When she got the summons be moved everysufficient direct evidence that the Pekin Government, with the aid of Mr. HART, have for years been endeavouring to bring this end obtained. about. It is clear, therefore, that those interested in the commercial prosperity of Hongkong should be on the alert, and not allow themselves to be by any possibility taken by surprise. We understand that the question of collecting duties in Hongkong has already been officially agitated in the Colony. and that the opinion of some of the leading merchants has been solicited. Before, how 16th justant. ever, any report be made on the subject, there should be a thorough discussion of the question in all its bearings, and the Chamber of Commerce should be requested to express its collective views. The matter is one of great intricacy, and it is of vital for breast of Section VII. of Oldinance 7 of clies to agree with Wingrove Cooks. PREVENTION IS BETTER THAN CURE

(From the Japan Gazette, Aug. 2nd.) There has always been so vast a difference between the bearing of China and Japan towards foreigners, that it may be somewhat far-fetched to treat of what goes on in the former, as a warning of what may take place here. In China there has been a marked and continuous bostility to us from the first; a hostility so strong. so unwavering, and so loudly expressed, that the consciousness of it is ever more or less present to foreign residents at all the open ports: and even mere lookers-on in Europe and America plainly see that further troubles are still imminent in that empire. THE SOUTHDAN DIFFICULTY.

Last year there was danger of our lending ear too readily to rumours of disturbances. We were all engerly bent on hearing new thinge. The terrible event at Tientsin had created an unessiness which induced us to exaggerate every chance report, and make the very worst of everything. We all felt that allowing for the superiority of the Anglo-Saxon over the Mongol, two thousand to one was heavy odds, and that, if unsupported by the Home Government at a crisis, we might suffer heavily in person and property. Though not disposed to be "scared." very few of the residents (capecially of those who had wives and children), would care to go through a period like the months of July and August, 1870

This year everything is changed. Our danger s not from over zeal -it is from apathy. The welvemonth of slares passed serenely away; and we are disposed to believe that all is quiet But we must not relax our vigilance because the eurface is tranquil. False security is as unreasonable as panic. Chius is a country of surprises. At any moment a fanatic in the South might set a province in a blaze by some ridiculous tale of gorcery or witch-craft. The Chinese wan, always be "bubbled" by tales of the surpernatural. The reason is plain. Confucianism nowhere provides for the setisfaction of the spiritual part of our nature. It gives no scope for the gratification of that portion of our at some time or other be the recipients of complex nature which makes nearly all us demand some kind of religion as a necessity. Hence as Confucine did not supply the desired want, the Chinese instinctively sought to fill offorded me the greatest extisfaction, and although to our worthy Chinaman has just re- ness a popular supplement to the classics in marked, we have had no opportunity of per the shape of a vast volume of charms, incantations, and be devilments of all kinds. Their presence of the troops in Yokohama during the novels are full of these things, and it is clear from recent experience that for every man who bas read the Shooking there are a thousand who are devoted acudents of the popular tales in which cenii and witches, and love-philtres and amplets, and incubi and the like are as numerous as in the Arabian Nights themselves. The deres ignorance and foolish superstition of the multitude are really beyond belief. We hope we abail not be accused of profuneness when we quote St. Paul, and offirm that the Enropean in China, in a peculiar sanse, "wrestles not against flesh and blood." The news from the South is unsatisfactory. as it seems that though the "Shan-sin-fan rumours bave been checked at Tatshan, they have been diffused over the province. A German Protestant Mission house has been looted at Toong Koon, and a Roman Catholic community have been driven out of their homes at Skeklung; a foreigner preaching the Gospel in the town of Sunwn was set upon by the populace and maltreated. These are all indications that bad feeling is rising, and we are not wise to neglect the ominous warnings that these scraps of news convey. We shall interested in learning how the representative o trap was sprung and the body of the murderer was hanging, his feet at least eighteen inches from the floor. At the expiration of ten minutes an examination was made by Dr. Compton, and the Indian pronounced dead-his spirit having departed for its "hoppy hunting ground." The body was then taken down and placed in the coffin, when the Indians present were allowed to take charge all that remnined of their red brother. By them he was buried on the Boggs Ranche, in Big Valley, in accordance with his On NEW YORK -request. Everything was conducted in the est orderly and systematic manner.

CALIFORNIA AND ITS PEOPLE. Charles Nordoff, in his last letter to the New York Evening Post, has this good word for Californians: I do not know whether to ascribe it to their varied employments, or to the fact that the State was settled originally by a picked population, the most energetic and resourceful only coming here, and of these again only the aclesi achieving success and remaining here; but it is a fact that I was struck with the high character of the population, in all parts of the State I have seen, for intelligence, enterprises and activity. "Chicago and San Francisco are the only two cities you can find in the whole country which will remind you of New York," said a friend to me whom I met in Chicago. I think he is right. Philadelphia, Boston, Cincinnati and other large cities differ in many ways from New York. All of them seem "alow" to one accustomed to the rush and which of New York business life. But such a person finds himself at home in either Chicago or San Francisco. In buth he finds the same activity in the streets; California-street in San Francis co, during business hours, is so much like our own Broad and Wall-streets, that when I first saw it I had no need to ask what was done there. The business men of San Francisco, move, talk, dress, dine, and carry on affairs like New Yorkers; some them drink a little more whicky, that is the only apparent difference between them. They are accessible to stangers, as readily hospitable, and little formal, as New Yorkers; and what San Francisco _the__ whole - State. banker.

lawyer or merchant, anywhere we have travelled in California, might be, for ought you could tell from his appearance or language, dress or address, just from New York, You would not take him for a Bostonian or a Philadelphian; and I did not notice in any person that peculiar air or dress which, with us in the East, proclaims a lawyer or business man from the interior. I think it was Donald G. Mitchell who complained that no man could live two years out of New York, no matter how well informed he might be, or how excellent his tailor, without betraying himself to a New Yorker as a country man. Well, here in California I met dozens o business and professional men whom I should have taken anywhere for New Yorkers -men as fresh in their thoughts, as ready, as though they had only the day before left Broadway or Will streets.

It is the same with their touses. They receive you, they dine or lunch you, they entertain as though they were New Yorkers. Of course the characte leads them to a different style of building; but when you are once in doors you are as much at home, and find the ways of the house, the mode of life and the tone of conversation as familiar to you as though you were at home. I met no "rusty' people in all Culifornia.

SCOTTISH HUMOUR. The Scotch are essentially stern and hard in their manner; yet under all this lies a vein of deep and kindly feeling, which gives a placid force of pleasantry even to a rebuke, and, while it forces a laugh, cannot offend. Take, for instance, the story as told by our old friend Dean Ramsay, of a clergyman who thought his people were making rather an unconsciouable objection to his using a MS. in delivering his sermon. They urged, "What gars ye tak' up your bit papers to the pu'pit?" He replied that it was best, for really he could not rememher his sermons, and must have his paper. " Weel, weel, minister, then dinna expect that we can remember them.' We will cite just one more specimen from the same source, by way of additional example At an examination by a minister of the flock, previous so the administration of the Communion, a man was asked, "What kind of man was Adam?" "Ou, just like ither foulk!" The minister insisted on having a more special description of the first man, and pressed for more explanation. "Weel" said the respondent, "he was just like Joe Simson, the horse couper." "How so?" asked the minister,

"Weel, naebody got onything by him, and Of wit, combined with pathos-deep, sensitive feeling; which, perhaps, is the best definition of humor, after all—the richest store is found in Scottish poetry, more especially in the quaint old ballads for which the North is so eminently famous. Before going any further, it would be heresy to pass by Robert Burns, a man whom, whatever his faults, every true lover of genius adores. Of that special humor of which we have been speaking, there are no better specimens to be found than in "The Cotter's Saturday Night," "Tam o'Shanter," or that masterly satire on the unco guid of the THE "JAPAN HEBALD" NEWSPAPER Presbytery, "Holy Willie's Prayer." Epigrams are the truest vehicles of condensed [7] HE Proprietors of the Japan Herald Newshumor, and for that reason are the most

No change at present The share market is healthy, and stocks of all description are on the rise. Banks, Old, have advanced to 45 per cent, premium for cash, and 55 per cent. for end of January, ex June dividend; New to 43 for each. Hongkong Fires are still wanted, and $355 to $360 per chare premium, has been paid for cash and end of the month. Chines are steady at $63, and Victorias at $59 to $60. Steamboats have been done at as high as 35 per cent. for cash, and 36 per cent. for end of September. A lot of China and Japan Marine Insurance shares have changed hands at Tla. 85 premium for cash, and Tls. 93 for end of December. Sugar shares look a little better, with small buyers at $20 per share discount. A few Hotels were placed at 60 per cent. dissount; and Docks at 20 per cent, discount for end of December.
